

Instructions for Accessing CardioSource Plus for UK

For on campus access go to <http://www.ACC.org/CardioSourcePlus>. For off campus access go to <http://ezproxy.uky.edu/login?url=http://www.ACC.org/CardioSourcePlus>. Note: Using the URL for off campus access will require that you bypass the security warning on your browser. Using either URL, you should see the CardioSource Plus for Institutions banner at the top of page. A login page will appear. Everyone must create a personal login.

If you are not a member of ACC or you do not have an account, select the option “I have not registered” to create your login.

Create your account by providing the information requested. Note that the * indicates required field.

The screenshot shows the 'Create Nonmember Account' page on the American College of Cardiology website. The page title is 'Gill Heart Institute Institutional Access' and 'Create an Account or Log in to MyACC'. The form includes fields for Email, Password, Security Question 1, Security Question 2, Clinical Focus, Country, Work Address, City, State/Province, and ZIP/Postal Code. Asterisks (*) indicate required fields. A note states: 'Please note that creating an ACC account does not make you a member of the ACC or give you access to member-only content, but it does allow you to register for events, purchase ACC products, and use promo codes for discounts.'

After the account is created, click the tab marked “Education and Meetings” and under “Products and Resources” select “CardioSource Plus for Institutions and Practices” link as shown below.

The screenshot shows the ACC website navigation menu. The 'Education and Meetings' tab is highlighted with a red circle. Under this tab, the 'Products and Resources' link is also highlighted with a red circle. The page header includes the American College of Cardiology logo, 'CardioSource Plus for Institutions', and navigation links for Guidelines, JACC, ACC.17, Membership, and About ACC. The user is identified as Rick Brewer, BA, with a Log Out option.

Next, select the “CardioSource Plus Subscriber Products” button as indicated below.

The screenshot shows the ACC website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'Clinical Topics', 'Latest In Cardiology', 'Education and Meetings', 'Tools and Practice Support', and 'My ACC'. Below this, the page title is 'CardioSource Plus for Institutions and Practices'. On the left, there is a sidebar menu with options like 'Education and Meetings', 'Online Learning Catalog', 'Image and Slide Gallery', 'Understanding MOC', 'Meetings', and 'Products and Resources'. The main content area features a list of benefits for CardioSource Plus, such as board prep activities, self-assessment questions, and CME credit. A call-to-action box on the right contains two buttons: 'Request Product Information' and 'CardioSource Plus Subscriber Products', which is circled in red. The text above the buttons says 'Click the button below to request more information on CardioSource Plus Today!' and 'Already a CardioSource Plus subscriber? Click the button below to access your subscription.'

Select from the content options that you are presented.
